FOREWORD

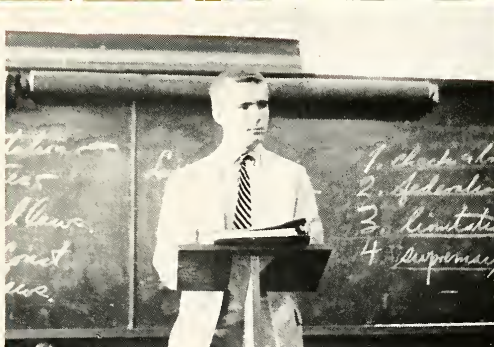

Nostalgia is something we should never know because after it has blinded us it will leave us with the loneliest awareness of a faintly remembered sensation in an unrevisited place. When we have been gone from the Mountain two or three years we will have memories of Eagle trips, of groggy mornings, of incredibly unattractive blind dates, of Abbo classes, of a bare light in Walsh Hall at three o'clock in the morning with its desperate crammer, of owl flicks; but what is it that makes the octogenarian alumnus smile and look down and away at the mention of Sewanee? It is something that we have captured in this year-book; that will go unnoticed for several years no matter how close the reading. We may call the CAP AND GOWN a success now, but its full realization will not come before a decade has passed.

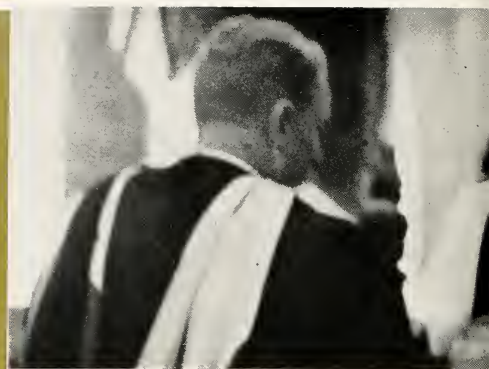

"A University is an Alma Mater, knowing her children one by one; not a foundry, a mint, or a treadmill."

The First Founders, Bishop Otey, Bishop Polk, and Bishop Elliott had a high vision of a University in which education would be united with Christian principles. The University of the South was to stand significantly upon a mountain—to give out light to the surrounding valleys and lowlands. The noble work of these men and others after them is today a monument to their wisdom and zeal.

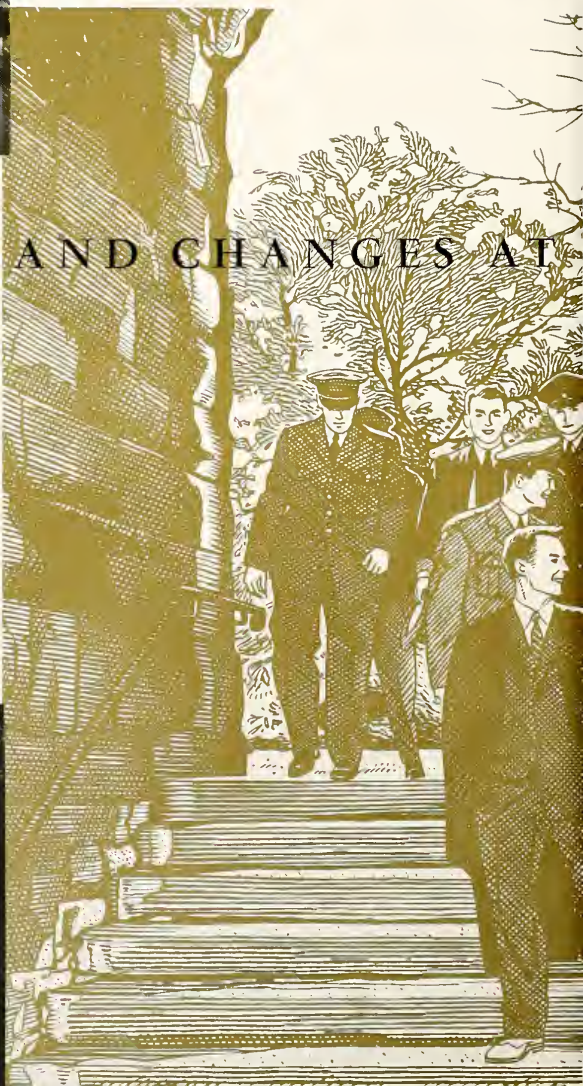

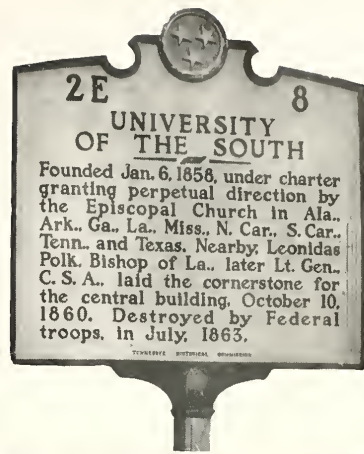

PROGRESS

There is little use for progress in a community enveloped in tradition. When a society of custom accepts modernization, ideals of the past are often given up to contemplation of the future. One of the intrinsically beautiful aspects of Sewanee is an acquiescence in a real tradition without ignoring the goodness of the modern world and its products.

AND CHANGES AT

TODAY

Sewanee has had a glorious past. Her ideals are founded on the highest principles of education that the modern world has seen. Great and noble men have caused her development from a one-building school to a University renowned for its spiritual, intellectual, and physical excellence. It is a purpose of the Centennial Edition of the CAP AND GOWN to present a view of the past through the present—to show that Sewanee in its hundredth year is worthy of the Ideals of the Founders and the men who aided in strengthening her.

A newly inspired athletic program, the recent introduction of more comprehensive study of nuclear energy in Science Hall, a completed All Saints' Chapel, and a renovated Walsh Hall will mark the end of an epoch at Sewanee and successfully launch a greater and an equally important century.

THIS BOOK IS DEVOTEDLY DEDICATED TO

DR. and MRS. GEORGE B. MYERS

AND TO ABBO

. . . To DR. and MRS. GEORGE B. MYERS, because they stand as a symbol of what the first century of Sewanee has offered to her students and as a standard of value for the next century to match if Sewanee shall continue in her greatness. They represent between them Sewanee's ideal of gracious personal relations and real wisdom. Sewanee is uniquely (the word is inevitable) qualified to perpetuate the realization of such examples as these. She can offer to the world men who have broad values with a depth extending not into the vague but into a rock-solid foundation. It is this foundation which distinguishes the true Sewanee gentleman and which is the highest quality of his education. There may be institutions of greater learning but none more genuine in its approach to learning. This genuineness, this depth, this graciousness of spirit that Sewanee has stood for is what our world now needs in its leaders during this time when secularism and confusion are at their zenith. Sewanee is faced with the responsibility of sustaining her tradition another hundred years. We salute the Myerses who have helped show the way.

. . . To ABBOTT MARTIN, a learned gentleman, because he is the embodiment of Sewanee and representative of the traditional ideals of the Old South; but more particularly because he has helped his younger friends to see the other side of the shield of human nature. Abbo's aura is now—and the memory of him surely will be—as imperishable as immortality.

THE CHANCELLOR

Fourteenth Chancellor of the University of the South

The Right Reverend Thomas Neely Carruthers is now in the second year of his six year term as Chancellor of the University of the South. Bishop Carruthers, Bishop of South Carolina, is a familiar figure at Sewanee. He received his B. A. degree from the University in 1921 and his B.D. from St. Luke's in 1929. He taught in the English Department of the College and has been a member of the Board of Regents for several terms. In 1940, he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity, bestowed upon him by the University.

Since his ordination in 1926, Bishop Carruthers has served as rector of St. Peter's Church, Columbia, Tennessee; Trinity Church, Houston, Texas, and Christ Church, Nashville, Tennessee, until he was consecrated Bishop on May 4, 1944. Bishop Carruthers is former president of the Episcopal Church's Fourth Province which includes fifteen dioceses in nine Southern states.

The Chancellor acts as president of the Board of Trustees, ex-officio member of the Board of Regents and must be a Bishop of one of the University's twenty-one owning dioceses.

Vice-Chancellor of the University of the South

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR

Few liberal arts institutions are fortunate enough to have as president a man who represents the scope of intellectual interest which it is their purpose to stimulate in their students. Sewanee is so favored in the person of Dr. Edward McCrady, Vice-Chancellor of the University of the South. The range of Dr. McCrady's activities extends from biology and speleology to music, art, and theology. In previous years he has received international renown in his capacity as senior research biologist at Oak Ridge. Like a Renaissance man he moves with equal ease in these varied fields, and the result is an emphatically negative answer to the modern myth of the specialized man. Dr. McCrady comes from a family closely associated with Sewanee, but he was educated at the College of Charleston, B.A., the University of Pittsburgh, M.S., and the University of Pennsylvania, Ph.D. The son of an Episcopal minister, Dr. McCrady has been most successful in combining modern science with traditional Christianity. His influence has extended far from his Mountain home as the spokesman of the Sewanee ideal throughout the country.

Standing: Dr. Satterlee, Bishop Barth, Dr. Kirkland,
Mr. Woodall, Seated: Dr. McCrady.

The Board of Regents, which is elected by the Board of Trustees, is the executive agency of the Trustees. It is composed of three Bishops, three Presbyters, and six laymen of the Episcopal Church with the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor as ex-officio members. It has the power of granting honorary degrees and of the government and maintenance of the University except the duties particularly reserved to the Board of Trustees. This year the Regents approved the renovation of Walsh Hall.

A highlight of the Centennial year was the meeting of the House of Bishops in the new Juhan Gymnasium September 14-18. Of the forty Sewanee alumni who had sat among its number, three (Bishops Penick, Juhan and Walter Mitchell in the foreground) were respectively first, second, and fourth in seniority among those present.

T H E D E A N S

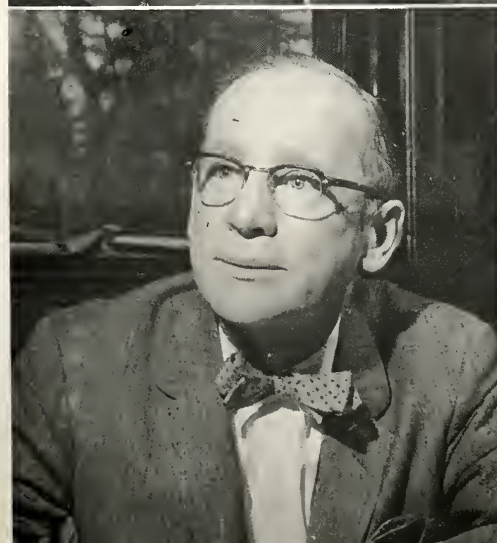

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

Dr. Robert S. Lancaster, as Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, is responsible in matters of academic rules and requirements. He is consulted in questions about course credits, changes in courses, and academic records. He also serves as a professor of Political Science.

ACTING DEAN OF ADMINISTRATION

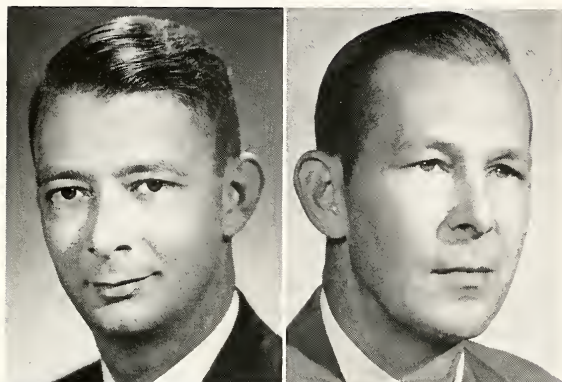

Arthur Butler Dugan acts as both Acting Dean of Administration and as head of the Department of Political Science. It is also his duty to act as Vice-Chancellor during the Vice-Chancellor's absence from the University. Dean Dugan is also responsible for the physical maintenance of the University properties. This entails coordinating campus housing and regulating matrons and proctors in the dormitories.

DEAN OF MEN

After serving as Acting Dean of Men for the Academic year 1956-57, Dr. John Maurice Webb assumed the full responsibility of the office this year. Dr. Webb is a Professor of History, maintaining a full teaching schedule. Problems other than academic fall under the jurisdiction of the Dean of Men. Chief among these are Student relations and problems, and chapel and class attendance. Dr. Webb is also Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Discipline.

THEOLOGY

The St. Luke's School of Theology is a seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America. Established in 1878 as a constituent college of the University of the South, it is under the same administration as the College of Arts and Sciences, but has its own dean and faculty.

The Very Reverend George Moyer Alexander is serving his second year as Dean of the School of Theology. He received his B.A. and B.D. degrees from Sewanee.

Dean Alexander has served in several parishes in the Diocese of Florida and served as editor of the "Florida Forth" magazine for five years. He also served as secretary of the Diocese of Florida.

His last parish before coming to Sewanee was Trinity Church in Columbia, South Carolina. He was also secretary of the Diocese of Upper South Carolina and a member of the Board of Regents from that diocese.

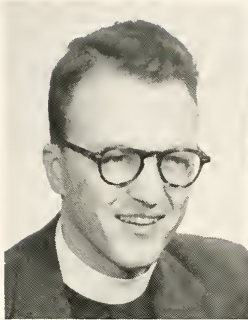

Before coming back to Sewanee, Dean Alexander took a year's work at the General Theological Seminary studying all phases of theological school work.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

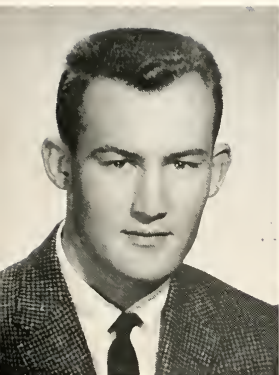

STANDING: Conrad, A. W. Jones, Mount, Honey, Donald, Porter, Berkeley, West, Lord, Canfill, Thompson. SEATED: Harb, Chairman.

It would be a very easy task indeed to say that the fraternity system is the center of extra-curricular activities at Sewanee. Over ninety per cent of the student body have membership in one of the nine fraternities and the organization of independent men, and the key to fraternity cooperation and coordination is the Pan-Hellenic Council. Its membership consists of two representatives from each fraternity, and the presidency alternates among the several fraternities.

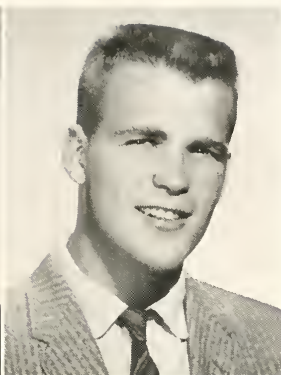

A college fraternity centers around rush week and the supervising this period is the most active duty of the Council. It sets up the general rushing program and procedure while noting that all rules of rush are kept. The Council also supervises Help Week at the beginning of the second semester which is a competitive activity among the pledge classes of the fraternities to improve the campus in some manner. The Council also shows its interest in fraternity life by giving a trophy each Homecoming to the fraternity that has the most attractive house decorations.

Tennessee Omega of Alpha Tau Omega, which was founded at Sewanee in 1877, opened its eightieth year with an extremely successful rush, netting twenty-four pledges, who swelled the chapter total to a near-record of sixty-three.

This early achievement set the pace for a year filled with successes in fields in which ATO has excelled in the past: scholarship, athletics, organizational representation, and social activities. During the previous year ATO made a sweep of all three major trophies for scholarship, intramural and varsity athletics, in addition to claiming leaders in many other campus activities as well.

The social scene held a big place in the year's picture with many successful parties, formal and informal—on University dance weekends and off-weekends. The annual Christmas open-house and the Spring Tea were enjoyed by the people on the Mountain again this year.

With the ATO traditions of the past and a strong membership for the future, the chapter has every reason to expect a good year to start Sewanee's second hundred.

Gamma Chi Chapter of Beta Theta Pi, founded in 1948, but one of the oldest of the national fraternities, continued to uphold its high academic, athletic, and general fraternal standards last year. Several of its members won high positions on campus publications and honorary and service organizations, as well as maintaining a consistently high academic rating for the chapter. The chapter pursued a well-rounded social life, with frequent informal parties, as well as Homecoming, Midwinter's, and the annual Beta Weekend.

The hope of a new house is intensified, as the plans are being brought to a state where completion is possible by the fall of 1958. With this hope before them the chapter plans to continue to maintain its perennially high standards throughout the coming year.

Beta Theta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, which was founded in 1883, this year celebrates its seventy-fifth year on the campus. An extensive social program was planned, including, besides the regular heavy schedule, a tea for Bishop Juhan, held in October, and the Seventy-Fifth Anniversary Banquet held in April.

A very good rush swelled the chapter to its largest size in recent years, and hopes were high for achievements in scholarship, athletics, and campus leadership. Members of the chapter held prominent positions on the publications staffs, as well as other important campus offices. It is expected that this year will be, all-around, one of the best in recent years.

Alpha Alpha Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order began its seventy-fifth year at Sewanee having had a very successful previous year and looking forward to a highly promising one to come. The year was started off with a very successful rush season which boosted the membership of the chapter to near-capacity. Kappa Alpha boasts many University leaders in publications, athletics, scholarships, and other fields. KA also led the fraternities scholastically the previous year.

The social activities of the chapter were upheld very well with the very successful Homecoming, Midwinter's, and Old South weekends which were unmatched.

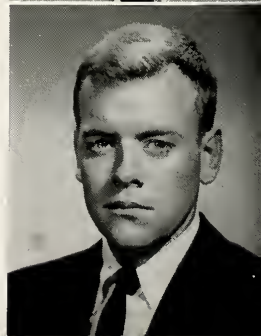

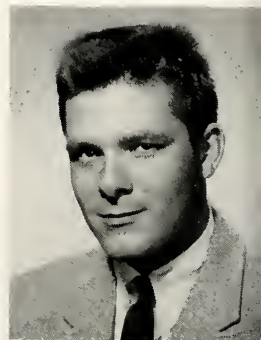

With the strength of the present chapter, the high KA standards of the past, and the goals for which the chapter is striving, Kappa Alpha has all the indications of a very successful year to come.

Omega Chapter of Kappa Sigma began its seventy-sixth year with a very successful rush period. The chapter was well represented in key organizational offices and campus positions which included Brother Dave Evett as President of the Order of Gownsmen, and looked forward to a year of extensive participation in athletics, and maintaining its high academic average.

Last year, the Chapter's Diamond Jubilee was climaxed by the Star and Crescent Weekend in April. This year Kappa Sigma will maintain its usual wide social program, including numerous formal and informal parties, including Homecoming, Midwinter's and the Star and Crescent Ball.

The year to come shows signs of again being a very successful one in all phases of campus life.

The Association of Independent Men, founded in 1950 by the late Bishop Hunter Wyatt-Brown, last year underwent a fundamental change and revitalization. Under the dynamic leadership of its Executive Committee, headed this year by its President, Robert Dale Sweeney, it spread its activities out among the whole body of Independents. Activity in all fields was encouraged.

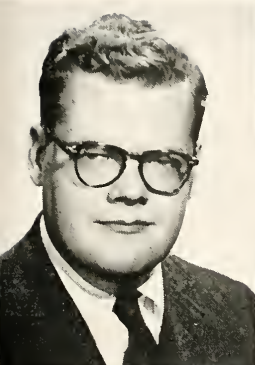

Working with a group approximately twice the size of any one fraternity, the Association has had members granted almost every conceivable honor on campus, including key positions on all three publications staffs. Socially the high point of last year was the very successful Christmas Party. The Independents were second in the Varsity and high in the Intramural Trophy standings, winning the intramural basketball trophy, as well as second place in track.

With its largest membership in some years, the Association hopes for a good year ahead again this year.

Phi Delta Theta began its seventy-fourth year at Seawanee with great expectations. During the previous spring and summer the basement of the house was waterproofed, cemented, tiled, painted, and furnished by the efforts of many contributing alumni and Brother Dr. Oscar Torian. A very successful rush, conducted by Brother Steeves as Rush Chairman, brought twenty-three pledges, raising the prospective membership to an all-time high.

The chapter looked forward to a highly successful social season, including the spring Phi Delta Theta formal, Homecoming, Midwinter's, and many other activities. The chapter, always strong athletically, looked forward to a successful season in this field. In addition, the chapter planned to continue its tradition of leadership in all the facets of University life in the University Centennial year.

GAMMA Sigma Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta received its charter from the Fraternity in 1919. Since its early years, the chapter here has participated actively in all campus functions, setting high goals of excellence in every field.

The Fijis repeated this year the successes of last year, which was busy and highly successful, with outstanding achievement in athletics, campus organizations, and social activities. A well-filled schedule of activities included a Christmas clothing drive and party, the Pledge tea, the annual Chi Omega party, the University dances, and in the spring, the colored children's Easter party, the Pig Dinner, and the Fiji Weekend, including the Black Diamond Formal and the Commencement Smorgasbord dinner.

TENNESSEE Omega Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the first Chapter of its fraternity to own its own house, this year opened its seventy-seventh year at Sewanee.

Last year the SAE's engaged, with excellent records in intramural and varsity athletics, holding several team captainships and other honors. They held important positions on campus, and were quite active in the social life of the Mountain. Founder's Day, the main social event of the season, the University dance weekends, and many informal parties helped to add to the all-round excellence of the group's activities.

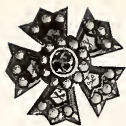

This year, with a large pledge class and total membership, the chapter continued to improve that record.

BETA Omicron Chapter of Sigma Nu opened its sixty-eighth year at Sewanee this year with an aggressive rush season that brought the chapter a well-rounded pledge class of twenty men.

Taking social life as the central theme, the Snakes maintained their reputation for having some of the best parties on Sewanee's justly admired social calendar. Formal and informal parties of all kinds kept spirits high during a year highlighted by the annual White Rose weekend.

As in the past, the chapter's high position in athletics, and campus activities was maintained. With the closing of a successful intramural season, the Snakes looked back on, and forward to, another excellent year.

THE ORDER OF GOWNSMEN

Student government at Sewanee is provided by the Order of Gownsmen. Membership in the Order is conferred on juniors, seniors, and special students in the College who have attained 60 semester hours and a 2.00 average for the previous semester. Students in the School of Theology are also awarded the gown but do not vote.

The official functions of the Order of Gownsmen are carried out through its several committees following action by the Order sitting as a body. Its functions lie in the chartering of new student organizations, conducting official business between the administration of the University and the students, attending to problems of student discipline, especially freshman discipline, and in supervising the sale of class rings. The principal committees of the Order are the Executive Committee, the Discipline Committee, and the Ring Committee. The Executive Committee is made up of the president, the vice-president, the secretary of the Order, and one Gownsmen representative from each fraternity and one from the Independents. Its duties include the scheduling of meetings of the Gownsmen, and in conducting the business of the Order. The Discipline Committee also has one representative from each fraternity and one from the Independents and usually meets once a week to assess penalties against students who have disobeyed the rules of the Order. The Ring Committee is responsible for the sale of class rings to juniors and seniors desiring them.

The academic gown first appeared on the campus of the University of the South in 1871, following a meeting of the Trustees in July of that year, where an ordinance was passed prescribing that caps and gowns be worn by students and faculty of the University, following the Oxford-Cambridge tradition upon which Sewanee was to be modeled. Two years later, in 1873, William Porcher DuBose, at that time Chaplain of the University, arranged for junior and senior students to be excused from military drill, and organized the Order of Gownsmen. Membership was limited to graduate students, and to the more advanced undergraduates. Since its founding, the Order has steadily taken on more responsibility in the handling of student affairs.

DISCIPLINE COMMITTEE. Standing: Davis, Sweeney, Kiker, McCormick, Creveling. Seated: Coles, Harb, Richards, Gooch.

The Proctors form the necessary link between the Administration and the students, a position which carries with it obligations and responsibilities to both. Among their several responsibilities, the Proctors enforce the rules of the University, and handle the various and continuous problems which arise in the dormitories. They also carry out supervision when needed in the chapel, the dining hall, and on other parts of the campus. At the close of each year, the Proctors meet and elect new Proctors, which are in turn approved by the Administration. Because of the responsibility of such a position, only those students considered to be reliable, competent, and conscientious are chosen. Appointment, then, to the position of Proctor carries honor and prestige, and it is one of the highest honors a man can receive while attending Sewanee.

THE PROCTORS

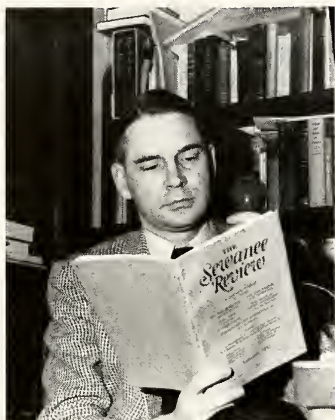

SKIP WILLIAMS
Chairman

The Honor Council is composed of two seniors, two juniors, one sophomore, one freshman, and three theological students, elected annually by their respective classes. Each student who enters the University is asked to sign the Honor Code, and, by doing so, he promises not to violate the Code in any way during his years at Sewanee. The Honor System plays an important role in the distinctiveness of Sewanee life, in that examinations and quizzes are virtually unsupervised. Meeting seldom, the Honor Council convenes only when there is a case to be presented to it. When such a case is presented to the Council, its members study the facts carefully and decide whether or not the Code has actually been violated. If it has, they recommend to the Dean of the College that the offender be requested to withdraw from the University. Thus the observance of the Honor Code, and the trust and privileges accorded the students because of its existence, is not taken lightly. It is indeed a credit to the University of the South, its Administration, and its student body that the Council so rarely meets.

The Publications Board is the heart of the smooth and successful running of the organs of expression at Sewanee. The editors and business managers of the three official student publications, the Sewanee Purple, the CAP AND GOWN, and the Mountain Goat, serve in ex officio capacity as members of the Board. It is very significant that free rein is given to each in the policy to be followed in the respective publications. The Board is headed by Monroe K. Spears, editor of the nation's oldest literary quarterly—the Sewanee Review, and Dr. Robert Degen, assistant professor of economics. The Board's primary functions are to receive and approve nominations for the editors and business managers of the student publications, to follow the progress of the publications during the year, and to supervise the allocation of publications funds to the organizations. With the inclusion of three faculty members selected by the Vice-Chancellor, two students elected from the Order of Gownsmen, one member of St. Luke's faculty, and one theological student, the Board represents a vital cross section of campus interest and activity and maintains the smooth functioning of the publications.

MOUNTAIN GOAT

BERNIE DUNLAP, Editor

BUSINESS STAFF: Bruce Samson, Bob Rice (Business Manager), Al Morrow

The Mountain Goat, new and improved, was a smashing hit this year from its first rugged Tony Austin short story to its last super-sensitive Olin Beall poem. The guiding light this season for the Goat was Bernie Dunlap, Jr., conscripted from his usual pastime of preparing sermons, who inspired all Arcadians to drop their books and go a-hunting for the tenth muse lately sprung up by the tennis courts—Clara.

The mag was lauded not only by such persons as James Abernathy ("Monkey and I agree that Sweeney is eclecticism with a vengeance.") but by Bob Wright, whose interest in the Goat compelled him to distribute copies neatly and conspicuously throughout lower Arkansas and upper Texas.

At the close of the year, editor Dunlap was asked what were his thoughts as to the outcome of the two publications; he blithely replied, "If the students would elect me again next year, I'd give them an even bigger and even better magazine."

Historically, the Mountain Goat dates from 1925 when the first issue appeared on the Mountain. The Goat was discontinued during the Second World War but was revived in the newer form of "The Helikon", which was the publication of Sopherim, the literary organization of the campus. The Goat was reorganized in 1951 and has, since that year, been a significant representative of the creative work of the student body, and "it contains more pictures than the Sewanee Review," concludes Dunlap.

THE SEWANEE PURPLE

The Sewanee Purple, the Mountain's newspaper, is "the official organ of the students of the University of the South." Like the other publications under the governance of the Publications Board, the Purple is edited and managed by undergraduates selected through campus-wide elections. The Purple is published regularly once a week throughout the academic year—on Wednesday evenings. Although it gives unusually competent coverage to all events of interest on the campus, it far surpasses the minimum requirements of a college newspaper by publishing weekly editorials and letters-to-the-editor on controversial and stimulating topics, movies, book, music reviews, and interesting features. It is printed by the University Press.

The Centennial Edition of the CAP AND GOWN is the product of a great deal of imaginative and creative activity combined with many hours of tedious labor. So much material might be included in the year-book of a university observing its hundredth year that we never once suffered for lack of ideas. The only problem, which was most difficult to solve, was exactly what should be stressed in less than one hundred fifty pages. It was at first decided that much of the written matter would be extracted from past editions of the CAP AND GOWN. But would this method truly express the minds of the Mountain of the present? It was only after extensive discussion among staff members and other students that the theme and treatment of your annual began to take form.

A most conspicuous omission—that of a vast feature or snapshot section—will probably meet with flanks of disapproval, but we felt that perhaps this book would reach out to more Sewanee alumni and friends, if for no other reason simply because of the "Centennial" in its title; that somehow the present spirit of the Mountain could be conveyed to some of our students of the past with a kind of nostalgic curiosity.

PHI BETA KAPPA

The highest recognition of scholastic achievement at the University of the South is membership in Phi Beta Kappa. This organization is open to all students in the College with a grade-point average of 3.7 for five semesters or 3.5 for seven semesters work. This requirement is very rigid, and consequently only the most capable and hard working of the student body are able to fulfill it.

Phi Beta Kappa was originally founded at the College of William and Mary in 1776 as a literary social fraternity. In 1826 it became a scholastic honor society and has since spread to become a national organization. The Tennessee Beta Chapter was organized at Sewanee in 1926 when the University's academic standing was approved.

At the end of each semester Phi Beta Kappa awards a scholarship trophy to the fraternity whose members maintain the highest academic average. As the cup that was circulated during the past few years has been retired, a new one will be purchased for the awards this year.

Phi Beta Kappa holds an initiation ceremony shortly after the close of the first semester in each school year. All those who are then qualified are awarded membership in the order.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

BENJAMIN BERNARD DUNLAP, JR.	EVERETT NORWOOD MCCORMICK	OMICRON DELTA KAPPA, national leadership fraternity, was organized to give student leaders in fields other than scholarship the kind of recognition that they deserve in very much the same way that Phi Beta Kappa recognizes scholastic attainment. Membership in the organization is limited to three per cent of the student body, and to gowmsmen. It is evidence of a well-rounded personality and of exceptional leadership ability, since eligibility for election is determined on the basis of a point system which is arranged so that a sufficient number of points can only be acquired by excellence in several different fields. These various fields of endeavor include scholarship, student government, athletic ability, publications, speech, and dramatics. But aside from concrete accomplishments, a great deal of emphasis is placed on personal character.

WHO'S WHO

From every senior class the most outstanding members are selected for listing in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Nominations for this honor are made by the Executive Committee of the Order of Gownsmen, which each year chooses the students that it considers best qualified to represent Sewanee in the publication. Some of the criteria used in selecting the students are personal character, scholarship, extracurricular participation, leadership in student affairs, initiative, and promise of future usefulness. Representatives for listing in "Who's Who" are selected by more than 650 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada each year. The idea behind the publication is to present a sort of atlas of collegiate leadership and to inspire effort in the fields of scholarship and extra-curricular activities as well. Aside from the national recognition which is realized by inclusion in "Who's Who," local election by students themselves gives the seniors who are elected recognition for their four years of work.

on ability in many fields of collegiate endeavor. These include not only scholarship, leadership, athletic ability, character, and work in student activities, but potentiality for future growth as well. New members for Blue Key are tapped for membership at Homecoming and Spring dances. This fraternity sponsors a large number of campus activities. They begin the year by spoonsoring the Homecoming Queen Contest and presenting the winner with a bouquet of roses. Also, the Intramural All-Star football game, the annual pre-season debate tournament, and the Sewanee Variety Show are services of Blue Key. Perhaps their major presentation of the year is the Inter-Fraternity Blue Key

Sing. The ushers for the chapel services and other official functions of the University are also members of Blue Key. Thus, by grouping outstanding students into one organization, Blue Key works for the best interests of the campus.

Founded in the nineteenth century, the historic German Club derives its name from a popular dance of the period. Its duties are many and important. The Club's primary function is the sponsoring, planning, coordinating, and financing of the principal dances held throughout the academic year. Membership in the German Club is limited to two men from each individual fraternity and two from the Association of Independents. Perhaps the largest single task of this group is the contracting of the bands for the dances. The Club has brought some excellent bands to Sewanee this year, especially in the old Sewanee favorite, John Gordy and his Dixieland Band. Also, their decoration of Gailor Hall for the gala events has been a top-notch job. Of course, the group is also responsible for the selling of tickets, refreshments, and cleaning up after the dances. Officers of the organization were Jim Gilliland, president; Daryl Canfill, vice-president; David Littler, secretary; and Kim Honey, treasurer.

Purple Masque, the official student dramatic organization, constantly strives to improve the quality of theatrical endeavor at Sewanee and, at the same time, to present interesting and cultural activities for those who participate and for those who form the audiences. "My Three Angels" was the first production of the year and it featured Mike Woods, Zach Zuber, and DuPre Jones as the zany convicts. The second production, "The Lady's Not for Burning", Christopher Fry's pun-strewn vehicle, featured Woods, Barbara Tinnes, and Bernie Dunlap, Jr. in leading roles. The properties of the productions were executed by Jack Wright and were considered the most elaborate. Purple Masque's able director, Brinley Rhys, will be away on leave of absence during the 1958-59 season. His successor has not yet been appointed.

PAUL MCCONNELL
Director

One of the most active organizations on the Mountain, the University Choir, is directed by Mr. Paul McConnell. The forty-voice choir provides the music for the daily and Sunday services throughout the year. An especially prepared anthem is presented each Sunday. Choir practice is held twice weekly, on Monday and Thursday nights. In keeping with the custom of years gone by, the choir presented a series of special programs during the year. The most popular of these was the traditional Christmas Carol service. Containing a large segment of the student body, the Choir is open to students of any religious denomination. During the past five years, the choir has recorded two albums of sacred music. The second of that was issued in 1955, under the RCA label, and was sponsored by the Sewanee Music Club.

The Debate Council consists of ten men who have shown interest and ability in forensic competition. The Council expresses the students' interest in both debating and oratory. This group, which grew out of two now inactive debate societies, Pi Omega and Sigma Epsilon, is the governing board of intercollegiate and intramural public speaking at Sewanee.

In addition to holding on-campus debates, the Council sponsors a debate team, which competes with other schools throughout the year.

DEBATE COUNCIL

Composed of students electing French as their foreign language requirement, the French Club seeks to promote interest in the French cultural tradition and to extend the appreciation of French as a living means of communication. These aims are realized through monthly meetings, conferences, and other activities. During the monthly meetings interest is added by speaking only French. Many aspects of French life are considered, ranging from impressionnisme to le jazz hot, and from the tales of a Sewaneean in Paris to life in a University in France. The highlight of the club's year is the annual French Club banquet. Native dishes are served, and French is spoken altogether. The hearty singing of les chansons adds to the event. Dr. Stratton Buck, Professor of French, and Dr. Scott Bates, Assistant Professor of French and Dr. Alain de Leiris, Assistant Professor of Fine Arts, serve as the club's sponsors.

PI GAMMA MU

Pi Gamma Mu is a national honorary social science fraternity whose membership is composed of upper-classmen. This group inspires interest in the social studies by debates, lectures, and seminars on current political questions, in addition to holding regular closed meetings. Members of Pi Gamma Mu are regular contributors to the editorial pages of the Purple. In this way, the society is an indirect voice of the students concerning our present-day social problems.

Sopherim, the main purpose of which has been to bring together students interested in creative writing for study and criticism, has been a functioning body at Sewanee since its beginning in 1904. Established as a local organization through the efforts of William Alexander Percy, it has in time spread to other campuses, and a national fraternity, Sigma Upsilon, was built around it. At regular meetings held twice monthly, there is analysis and criticism of the members' writing and, three times a year, consideration of short stories, poems, and essays of persons interested in joining the group. Sopherim's principal public service is to bring a prominent man of letters to lecture once a year at a meeting open to the entire student body. Mr. Lawrence Ferlinghetti, noted American poet of the new San Francisco school of poetry, read and lectured on his own works and those of other fellow San Franciscans. Members of the faculty are often invited to speak on topics of interest.

The Music Club was founded nine years ago and consists of students, both musicians and non-musicians, with a sincere love of music. Its purpose is the broadening and stimulation of its members' musical interests, as well as the promotion of interest in serious music on the Mountain. This year the club again helped sponsor the series of concerts presented at the University by members of the Chattanooga Symphony Orchestra. The series began in January with the first concert consisting of Mozart's Jupiter, Beethoven's Concerto No. 3, Gruber's Trichotomy, and Chabrier's Espana Rhapsody. Membership in the Music Club is elective and is limited to twenty-five, but meetings are generally open.

MUSIC CLUB

A comparatively new organization on the Mountain is the Radio Club, which attracts the many licensed radio "hams" on the campus. Regular meetings are held, but the greatest activity of the group is directed toward practical experience in broadcasting with other "hams". The facilities used by the Radio Club are in the radio shack on the first floor of Magnolia Hall. Active correspondence between members of the club and other "hams" throughout the country is maintained. The Club's call number is K₄ETH.

STUDENT VESTRY

The Student Vestry is made up of elected members from each class in the University, one representative from the Theological School, and one from SMA. This group works with the Chaplain on campus religious activities and helps to plan the Church budget. They also work to secure guest speakers for All Saints' Chapel and promote the reading of lessons in chapel by members of the Vestry and Blue Key. This year the Student Vestry will sponsor inquirer's classes and Lenten Fraternity Bull Sessions.

The Acolytes' Guild of All Saints' Chapel is the organization that furnishes the servers and crucifers for the innumerable church services that are held during the school year. In close conjunction with other service organizations at Sewanee, the Guild helps to sponsor the St. Mark's Milk Fund drive. This provides milk for the students in the local colored school.

The Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department is responsible for protecting the entire community of Sewanee from disasters caused by fires. This outfit has grown in efficiency during the past few years and is now a very reliable group of trained firefighters. The department is made up entirely of volunteers from the student body of the University who are selected after taking competitive examinations which test the student's knowledge of firefighting techniques and his common sense.

To be eligible for membership in Los Peones one must have either taken Spanish or be taking it at the time of his initiation into the group or be acquainted with the heritage of that sunny land south of the border. The Los Peones keep alive the traditions of the oldest important segment of post-Columbian North American culture. They wear as their distinguishing costumes sombreros, serapes, and other articles of clothing reminiscent of Old Mexico. The Los Peones maintain that their purposes are "to stimulate conversational Spanish, promote fellowship on the campus, and study the social customs of Spain." The biggest push toward these goals usually comes on party week-ends.

WELLINGTON CLUB

In the summer of 1948 a group of distinguished Sewanee students came to a "full realization of our great Anglo-Saxon heritage and wish to perpetuate their ideals." To this end they organized in the fall of that year the Wellington Club. Adopting a typically English form of government, headed by a white wigged Prime Minister and a President of the Privy Seal, they pledged solemnly to preserve the Anglo-Saxon tradition, and to fight with diligence all Scotsmen, Saracens, and Spaniards. Of course, only those of proven noble birth and descent are allowed to sit among the honored peers, who personify in their manner and bearing the high English criteria of reserve, formality, and correctness.

After one decade's existence in Sewanee, the Wellington Club has dissolved the use of the wig and has begun the wearing of stately capes to all its functions.

The Highlanders, one of the three truly "social clubs" on the Mountain, are distinguished by their Scottish kilts, bonnets and bagpipes. This group's purpose is, they say, "to increase and disseminate appreciation of Scottish customs and institutions among the student body." They bivouac usually on party weekends and other specified times throughout the year, especially during the Homecoming halftime ceremonies. Membership is limited to four men from each fraternity.

SEWANEE PHYSICAL SOCIETY

The Sewanee Physical Society, SPS, was organized this year for those who have physics as a major interest. SPS hopes to find out and encourage undergraduates whose interests are in physical science. At the monthly meetings, papers on the work of members are read and discussed, books on science of current interest are reviewed, or guest lecturers speak. This year the Society attended the annual meeting of the Southeastern Section of the American Physical Society. SPS has also taken the lead in the formation of a local chapter of national physics honor fraternity. SPS itself plans to affiliate with the American Institute of Physics next year. Lawrence Alvarez was president of SPS this year.

PI SIGMA ALPHA

Pi Sigma Alpha Fraternity is the national political science honor fraternity. The Sewanee chapter, Gamma Sigma, was established on March 7, 1958 and the members were initiated by a group from Emory University. Student membership in the society is conferred upon no basis of selection other than that of scholastic achievement. Each chapter is encouraged to be a working organization throughout the academic year, functioning as an integral part of the political science department in the promotion of worthwhile extracurricular activities related to public affairs. As stated in its constitution, Pi Sigma Alpha promises "to stimulate productive scholarship and intelligent interest in the subject of government." Immediately following the establishment of the new Sewanee Chapter, the guests from Emory and the Sewanee members of the Fraternity marked the occasion with a banquet.

STUDENT WAITERS GUILD

The Waiters' Guild is the organization of the men who serve the meals in Gailor Hall. The Guild is divided into four teams of six men with their captains under the head waiter. The head waiter, who this year has been Joe Griffin, is responsible to the manager, Mr. Oates. The four Captains and the head waiter form a sort of executive committee which meets generally once a week to discuss problems connected with their work. The four teams rotate in serving the different dining room areas. A man gets off one day a week but otherwise serves three meals a day for the rest of the week. The student waiters have a party the last half of each semester.

The mission of the A.F.R.O.T.C. is to provide future air Force officers and future citizens with an education tailored to meet the demands of modern Air Age. In addition it serves to train young men for service in the U.S.A.F. as pilots, observers, engineers, scientists, or administrative personnel. The Cadet Group, commanded by Cadet Lt. Col. Louis T. Parker, is divided into two squadrons and the A.F.R.O.T.C. University Band. The Arnold Air Society sponsors debates and lectures on current military questions, in addition to holding regular closed meetings. The Cadet Club keeps the Sewanee tradition of outstanding dances with its presentation of the Military Ball in the Spring. These activities, including the Elite Flight, Sabre Drill Team, the Rifle Team, and field trips to nearby bases enable cadets to acquire a wealth of specialized knowledge and to develop latent talent, which subsequently will serve them well as a source of pleasure in their future careers.

The Sewanee Tigers, under the brilliant coaching of Shirley Majors, had their first winning season in five years. There were no individual heroes on this year's squad. They were a compact, well-trained group of Sewanee men who had the desire and the ability to win, and win they did. The efforts of this fine team produced a rousing 5-2-1 record.

This year's team was lacking in both weight and depth. The line averaged slightly more than 180 pounds per man. The squad was also short on experience in the forewall as only seven of the thirteen returning lettermen were linemen. It was a rare occasion when more than 20 men saw action in a game. All of these factors were offset by the tremendous physical condition of the squad and their intense desire to win.

The season opened at Hardee Field on September 28 with a 25-0 victory over the Howard Bulldogs. Rain fell throughout the contest but it failed to hinder the Tigers as they scored twice in each half to win easily. Walt Wilder and Andy Finlay each made two touchdowns. Wilder's scores came on runs of 38 and four yards. Finlay plunged a yard for one touchdown and ran back an intercepted pass 20 yards for his other score.

The next week the Tigers traveled to Jackson, Mississippi where they again held their foe scoreless by blanking Millsaps 14-0. Wilder hit on 7 out of 10 passes. One of these tosses went 20 yards and was good for a touchdown to Dale Ray. Frank Mullins twisted 15 yards for the other Tiger tally. Tiger blocking and passing showed vast improvement over the first game.

Captain Andy Finlay procures some ball handling advice from Shirley Majors.

We think Jack Daniel either got or blocked this one. Anyway, Se-wanee won the game.

Frank Mullins shows Washington and Lee no mercy as he scores another six points.

Back on home soil, the Tigers saw their perfect record spoiled as Mississippi College held them to a 6-6 standoff. Sewanee scored in the first quarter with a sustained march, Finlay capped the drive by going over from the two. The visitors evened matters in the third quarter. In the fourth period the Tigers drove deep into the Choctaws territory before losing the ball on downs.

The following week, October 19, the Tigers went to Crawfordsville, Indiana and lost their first game of the season 38-21 to Wabash. The outmanned Purple gridders managed to keep the score close as they faced their most powerful opponent of the season. Wilder took a 10 yard aerial from Mullins for one Sewanee score and he pitched eight yards to end, Tom Moore for another tally. Mullins went 15 yards for the other touchdown. The Tigers could not cope with the far greater reserve strength of the Little Giants, but they demonstrated an explosive offense.

After a schedule break, the Tigers journeyed to Danville, Kentucky on November 2 and lost a tough 7-0 decision to Centre. The winning score came in the last period with less than three minutes left to play. The Tigers lost the ball twice within the Centre 10 yard line, Frank Mullins ran the second half kick off back 90 yards for a score but the play was nullified by a clipping penalty.

On November 9 the Tigers crushed Washington and Lee 33-14, before an overflowing homecoming crowd at Hardee Field. Wilder scored in the first quarter on an eight yard plunge but the Purple were down 14-7 at halftime. In the third period, a 15 yard run by Steve Pensinger put Sewanee only one point in arrears. Then end Jim "Hoot" Gibson blocked a punt and rambled 50 yards to score and put Sewanee ahead for good. Mullins added two more scores with dashes of 20 and five yards. The Tigers scored 20 points in this explosive third quarter. The Generals had been justly repaid for their 1956 victory over Sewanee.

The following week, the Purple went to Memphis and continued their high scoring ways by wallowing Southwestern 34-12. Tailback Frank Mullins had a field day as he ran for three scores and reeled off many long jaunts. The other Tiger point makers were Andy Finlay and Steve Pensinger. The Tiger line effectively harassed the opposition by blocking two punts.

Sewanee ended its season November 23 by ruining Hampden-Sydney's perfect record to the tune of 21-6. The contest, played on Hardee Field, was Sewanee's finest showing on the gridiron in many years. Walt Wilder sparked the offense and scored twice on drives of twenty and two yards. Andy Finlay scored on a one yard plunge and Bob Keck went over from the five. The Tiger line, brilliant all season, rose to new heights. The Virginians were turned back once, only inches from the goal line. Hampden-Sydney was keyed for the game but not to as high a pitch as the Tigers who played with an aggressiveness not seen in previous seasons.

Assistant coaches Walter Bryant, Clarence Carter and line coach Horace Moore can claim much of the credit for this year's winning team. Coach Moore was also responsible, to a large degree for the development of an aggressive, quick reacting line.

Many of last year's freshmen developed into key players on this year's team. Both the end posts were handled by sophomores. Gibson was the team's leading pass receiver and a rugged defensive performer. Ray was also very capable on defense and pass receiving. Dennis Thompson developed into a fine pivotman. He was an effective defensive signal caller and a good blocker after snapping the ball. Max Young improved rapidly and he handled the kicking chores when Thompson had to miss the last game. In the backfield, Steve Pensinger was a punishing runner and one of the hardest hitting of all the Tigers on defense. Wilder came into his own as a star at the leader up front. Elmer led the charge that held Hampden-Sydney on the one foot line. He was one of the fastest linemen as shown by the number of pursuit tackles he made. This year's captain was Al Wade Jones. Jones well earned his fourth letter with many alert performances. He was a devastating blocking back and a real leader as captain. Bruce and Duff Green closed out their careers with fine efforts all season. Each weighed only 165 pounds, but their will to win and experience compensated for this. Tommy Black added size and experience to the tackle corps. Bob Keck scored his first touchdown against Hampden-Sydney. He was a constant threat from the wingback spot with his tremendous speed.

Graduation will take only six men from next year's squad, and six of this season's starters were only sophomores. With the enthusiasm that he has instilled in this young team, coach Shirley Majors can expect great things from next year's squad.

Certainly, no one can deny that he has put Sewanee football back on its feet, and his first season on the mountain will not be soon forgotten.

tailback slot. His left-handed aerials frequently found their target and he was an exciting broken field runner who could, when the occasion demanded, lower his shoulder and drive for that vital yardage.

In addition, two transfer students gave outstanding performances all season. Robert Potts, 190 pound tackle with a wealth of football experience, was a stabilizing influence on the Tiger line. Tailback Frank Mullins had the misfortune of missing the last game. He went into the game with a net total of 909 yards in offense.

Several freshmen showed great potential. Tom Moore, an end, grabbed a touchdown pass against Wabash. Pat McGowan and John Putman showed great promise at tackle. Danny Woods was very effective in his guard position. Larry Chandler showed his worth by his fine performance in the Hampden-Sydney game. His alert interception set up one of the touchdowns. In the backfield, Ernie Cheek was a hard-hitting blocker as quarterback in the single wing.

Alternate captain Andy Finlay was one of the few juniors on the squad. He proved to be a powerful runner and blocker from his full-back position. In addition to this, he played good defensive ball, especially in the Hampden-Sydney game when he repeatedly threw opposing backs for losses.

Last but by no means least were the contributions made by the senior members of the team. Guard Harold Elmer proved to be a real

... And it's off to a very good basketball season as Snuffy Gelston makes his entrance!

B A S K E T B A L L

When the basketball prospects first reported for practice, the Purple stated forebodingly: "It is the smallest and most inexperienced team Coach Lon Varnell has had since his first year at Sewanee." Coach Varnell, one of Sewanee's most enduring institutions, proceeded on the perennial job of molding a team from his thin prospects, who were mostly the sophomore remnants of last year's squad and a group of promising but untested freshmen.

Jack Moore, the only senior on the team, was elected captain. He teamed with Jim Foster, sophomore, at the guard slots. The only really tall man Varnell had, Jim Roberts (6'5"), opened at center. Forwards were Snuffy Gelston, a sophomore returnee, and Jerry Cummings, the best of the freshman prospects. Backing the starters were more freshman and sophomores: Larry Burton, Gray Hanes, Bob Herschel, Bob Howland, Charlie Joseph, Bob Rust, and Larry Varnell.

The opener against Vanderbilt was a 91-50 loss. In the first game played in newly-completed Juhan Gymnasium, the Tigers were snowed under by another SEC powerhouse, Tennessee, 89-40. Gelston led Sewanee scorers with 12 points, two of which were the first Tiger points scored in the new fieldhouse.

As Sewanee's inexperience began to wear off in the next two outings, the cagers bounced Chattanooga, 63-51, with Foster scoring 23 points and the entire squad seeing action, and edged Howard, 48-47, with freshman Cummings contributing 15 of that number. During the holidays Southwestern snapped the Tiger winning streak in a 78-61 contest in Memphis, despite 25 big points by captain Moore.

After Christmas came two heart-breakers, a last minute loss to Emory-Henry by a 56-52 count, and a nip and tuck defeat at the hands of Carson-Newman in an even closer game, 56-53. Then against Birmingham-Southern the team really jelled. Again led by Moore, who pumped through 27 points, Sewanee won the overtime battle, 72-66, in veteran style. The winning way continued against Cumberland, which was buried under in a 73-39 no-contest.

Chattanooga and Tennessee slowed things down a bit, but the Tigers snapped back again to clobber Florence State. 84-56. Team field-goal accuracy that night was an amazing 54%. Foster led scorers with 27 points. Bryan became the next victim in an 88-41 cakewalk.

A late season slump saw the Tigers lose two games on the road to teams they had beaten earlier in the season: Florence State and Birmingham Southern. By the week of the Sewanee Invitational Tournament the season record stood at 9-9 after a 63-61 squeeze over Maryville.

The Tournament itself proved to be the highlight of the season. Six teams—Howard, Lambuth, Millsaps, Mississippi College, Southwestern, and Sewanee were entered. Mountain interest was stirred when the Tigers beat a good Mississippi College team, 69-64. And the excitement mounted to a fevered pitch with Sewanee in the finals against a strong Labmuth team that had won 15 games during the season. When Varnell's troops, largely on the strength of Jim Roberts' amazing 54 rebounds, pulled a 57-49 victory out of the fire, pandemonium broke loose. Coach Lon himself, weeping uncontrollably and atop the shoulders of a jubilant crowd, was the symbol of a happy ending for a team that had shown streaks of brilliance throughout the season and gives promise for bigger years ahead.

Sewanee's fledgling swimming team, in its second year of existence, compiled a record which brings to mind the sensational football team of '99. The swimmers with eleven victories and no losses, had one of Sewanee's only perfect records in a varsity sport since the war. Under the able coaching of Hugh Caldwell, assistant professor of philosophy at Sewanee and former swimming ace for Georgia Tech and Emory, the team was victorious over such Southeastern and Southern conference powerhouses as Georgia Tech, University of Tennessee, Vanderbilt, University of Kentucky and the Citadel.

The Sewanee tankmen returned from Christmas vacation with the prospect of a meet with Georgia Tech only five days away. But the hard work and training which had started in October paid off for the swimmers and they scored a decisive 57-31 victory over the Yellow Jackets. Last year, Georgia Tech and the University of Kentucky handed the swimmers their only defeats in a 6-2 season.

During the next two weeks, the Tigers swamped Birmingham-Southern, Eastern Kentucky and Louisville. After a brief lay-off for final exams, the team journeyed to South Carolina and met some formidable competition. First, they scored a resounding victory over Clemson and then went to Charleston to meet their toughest adversary of the year—the Citadel. This exciting contest was won by a two point margin, and saw several Sewanee swimmers turn in their best times of the year. Outstanding performances were turned in by the Medley Relay Team which went through the entire season undefeated, and by sprinters Bruce Sampson and Tony Veal who were also captain, and alternate captain respectively, of the team. Sewanee finished the season by handing defeats to Emory, Tennessee Tech, Kentucky, Vanderbilt and the University of Tennessee. The Vandy meet, with a score of 69 to 17, was Sewanee's most decisive victory of the year.

Lettermen on the team and their events are: Tony Veal, Bruce Sampson, Paul Bailey and Ken Rast—freestyle sprinters and middle distance men; Bob Peel, George Bentz, Bill Nichols and Jim Dean—breaststrokes; Jay Cleveland, Peter Bickle and Chuck North—distance men; Gordon Hiles and

CROSS COUNTRY

Kneeling: Jones, Barnwell, Harris, Hayworth, Brown. Standing: Holland, Sewall, Bergeron, Dean Webb (Coach), Carruthers, Marks (Manager).

This year, the Sewanee harriers had a disappointing season. Only three of last year's lettermen came back out for the team. Since school started late, the team had to run its first meet a week after work-outs had begun. This late start and outbreaks of flu greatly hampered the squad.

The cross country season began with a triple meet in Memphis against Memphis State and Southwestern. Sewanee finished third in the contest. The following week, Sewanee had a unique telegraphic meet with Roanoke College of Virginia. Both teams ran on their respective tracks, and the times were telegraphed. The high ranking Roanoke runners came in first. Sewanee next lost a home meet to the powerful University of Tennessee team. Sewanee then sponsored a triple meet with Berea and Vanderbilt. The Purple runners lost this meet by a heart-breaking one point. For their last meet, the harriers traveled to Dayton, Tennessee for the Bryan College Invitational Meet. Sewanee placed third, behind Bryan and Vanderbilt.

This year's returning lettermen were, Fred Jones, Bill Barnwell, and Fred Brown. New lettermen were: Ned Harris, Phil Holland, Geoffrey Sewall, Hut Hayworth, and Al Bergeron.

Cross-country, a relatively new sport at Sewanee, has had some phenomenal seasons in the past. The team of '53 had the only undefeated season of any Sewanee sport since the war, until the swimming team of '58. With most of this year's lettermen expecting to return, the prospects for next season look bright. Ned Harris and Fred Brown have been elected co-captains of next year's squad.

The group of wrestlers who met coach Horace Moore at the beginning of the season possessed an abundance of enthusiasm but a lack of experience. Their fine 3-3 record proved what determination and a will to win can do. This relatively new sport at Sewanee seems to be coming into its own. The Tiger grapplers first defeated Emory and then scored two separate victories over Birmingham Southern. The wrestlers lost to Auburn and dropped two exceedingly close matches to Chattanooga.

The Tigers finished their season with a third place in the highly competitive Southeastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Tournament at Emory. Their 52 point total was the best Sewanee has ever done in this tournament. Ned Harris, by winning the 115 lb. championship, was high point man of the team. Other noteworthy performances were turned in by Skip Lazell, Jody Gee, Curtiss Scarritt, Ralston Taylor, Dave Stoney, Dave Conner, Peter Thomas and Max Young, who was captain of the team.

The golf team, with only two returning lettermen, faces a difficult season. Coach Walter Bryant's squad, however, has an enthusiastic group of players including some very promising freshmen. The team is being built around Flowers Crawford and Josh Forehand, who are the returning lettermen. These two fill the first two positions on the team, while Jimmy Foster, Dave Elliott and Ben Paddock make up the rest of the squad.

Thus far, the golfers have been victorious over Vanderbilt and Austin Peay. Vandy fell, 16-11, and Austin Peay went down by a 10-7 margin. Other matches of the 14 meet schedule include the University of Tennessee, and the Southern Intercollegiate Meet at Athens, Georgia. Last year Sewanee made an excellent showing at this tournament.

TENNIS

MIKE WOODS

Kneeling: Thompson, Marks. Standing: Evett, Woods, Lockwood, Stewart. Not pictured: Gray Smith.

As the CAP AND GOWN goes to press, the prospects for this year's tennis team look bright. Returning lettermen Jackie Thompson, Bill Marks, Mike Woods and Bob Hare give the team much depth and experience. Other members of the squad include Pete Stewart, B. B. Sory, Fred Freyer, Jim Lockwood and Dave Evett. Dr. W. O. Cross has returned as tennis coach and he is assisted by Gordon Warden of the Seminary.

Last year, the team made a fine record against some formidable opposition. The schedule included matches with Georgia, Vandy, Einory, University of Tennessee and Southwestern.

In their first match of the year Sewanee fell before a powerful Georgia squad 8-0. Following this defeat the Tigers scored victories over Emory, 9-0 and Florence State, 7-2. Other matches on the schedule include the University of Cincinnati, University of Tennessee and the Southwestern Invitational at Memphis.

TRACK

A wealth of freshmen candidates greeted head coach Horace Moore as he attempted to rebuild his squad around a nucleus of seven lettermen. Key performers Kent Rea, Dick Foster, Mike Veal and Ronnie Palmer withdrew or graduated last year.

Fortunately the returning lettermen compete for the most part, in different events. Jim Scott is an experienced pole vaulter as is Captain Halsey Werlein who holds the school record. Returning weight men are Everett McCormick and Jim Mason. Outstanding cross-country runner Bill Barnwell returns in the 440. In the dashes, record holder Bob Keck still prevails. The other letterman is Jerry Moser who is a combination broad and high jumper.

Freshmen Robert Brown and Peter Hanahan have shown great promise in the dashes and broad jump. First year man Warner Montgomery has also shown good dash form. Jerry Crowe is the leading high hurdler and Montgomery does a fine job in the lows. In other track events much is expected of Brantley Cox in the 440, Jerry Birchfield in the 880, and Fred Jones and Jack Bomar in the mile and two mile. Newcomers Bill Stewart and Dave Rarity have bolstered the weight department, and freshman Jim May has exhibited winning high jump form.

The team has thus far recorded easy victories over Howard and Bryan. Their eight meet schedule is highlighted by a meet with the University of Kentucky.

THE "S" CLUB

The "S" Club, a service organization composed of Sewanee's varsity lettermen, had an active year. They sold refreshments and programs at football games to raise funds for their various projects which include: payments for the football scoreboard, the Faculty—"S" Club Softball Game, and the presentation of awards for best Homecoming float and "Senior Athlete of the Year." Officers for this year were President Al Wade Jones, Vice-President Tom Black, and Secretary-Treasurer Fred Daniels.

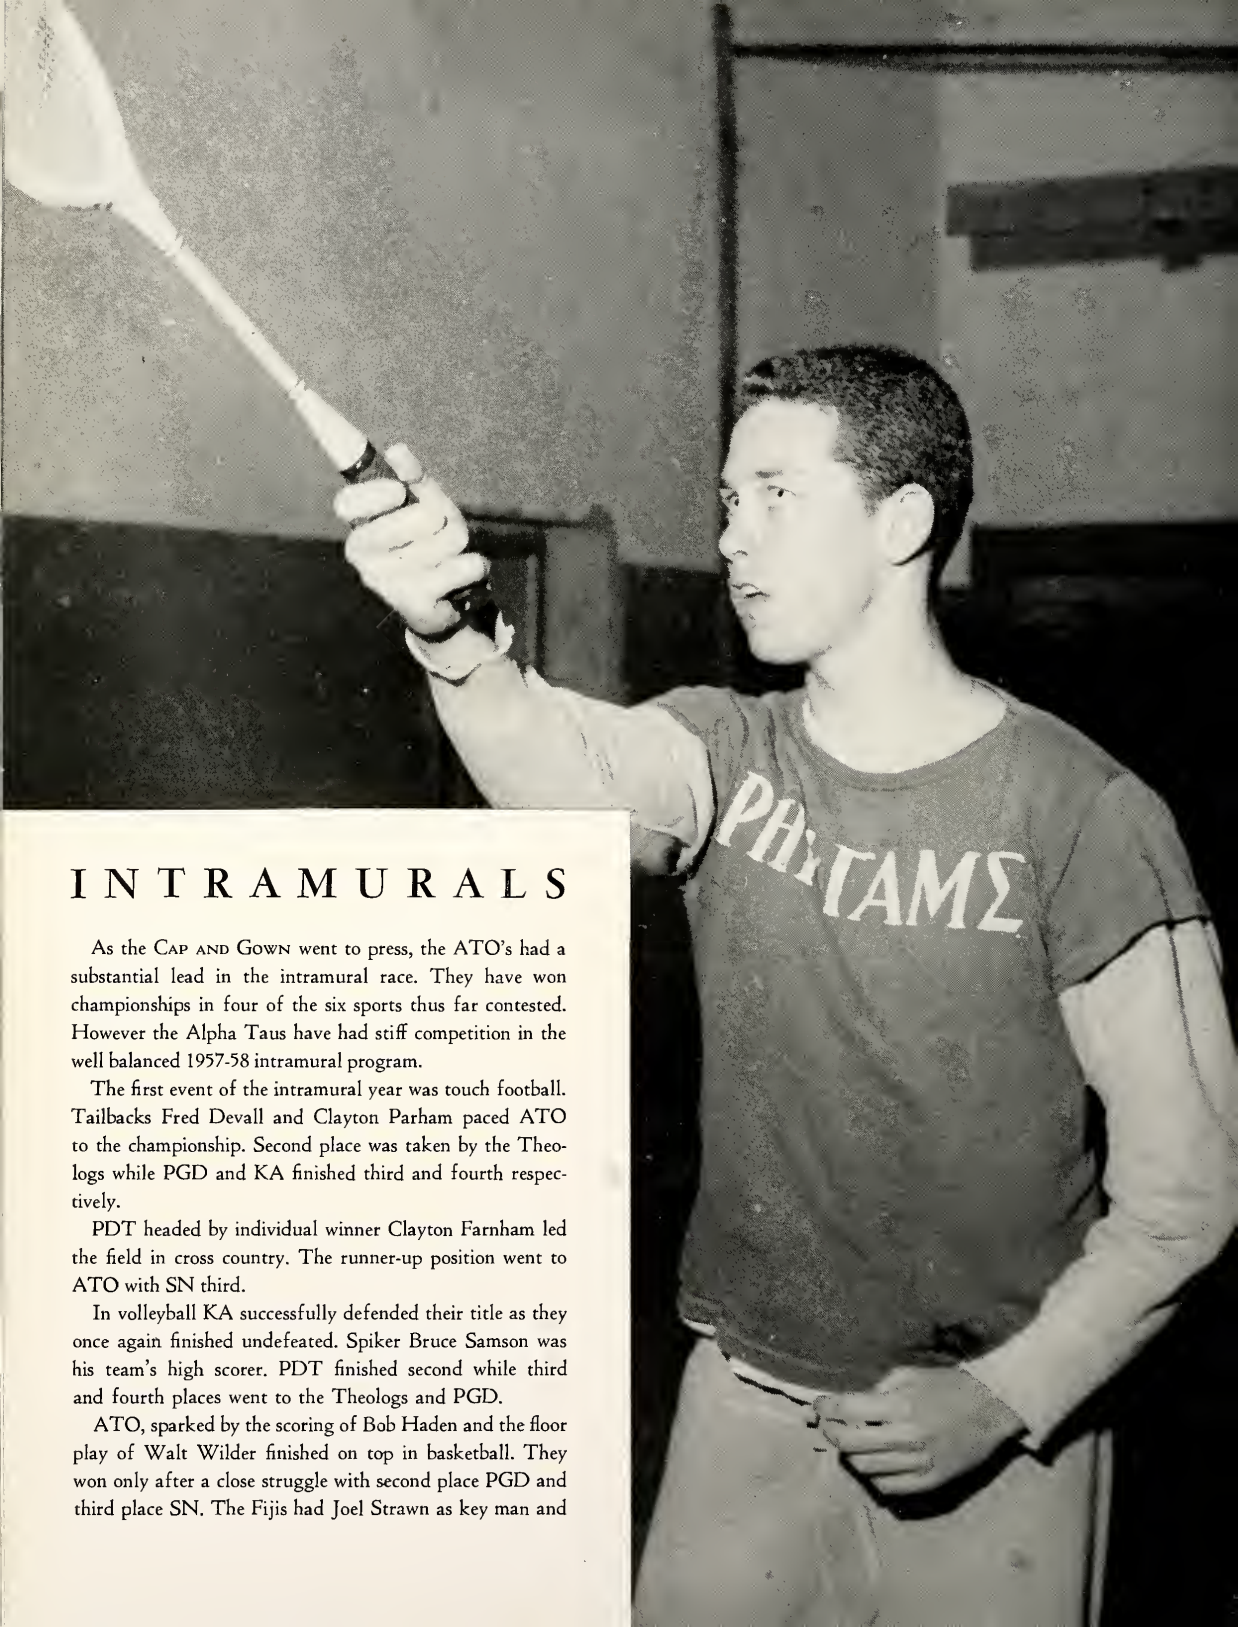

Led by Jim Gilliland, this year's cheerleaders did a tremendous job in developing school spirit. This group not only led yells at football and basketball games, but also organized the annual Homecoming torchlight parade and bonfire, conducted Friday night pep rallies, and they handled the decorations for Hardee Field and Juhan Gymnasium before every game.

He is wearing a dark-colored t-shirt with the word 'PHITAMS' printed in large, white, stylized capital letters across the chest. He is holding a tennis racket with a light-colored head and a dark handle, with his right hand gripping the handle. The background is dark and out of focus, showing some structural elements of a building.

INTRAMURALS

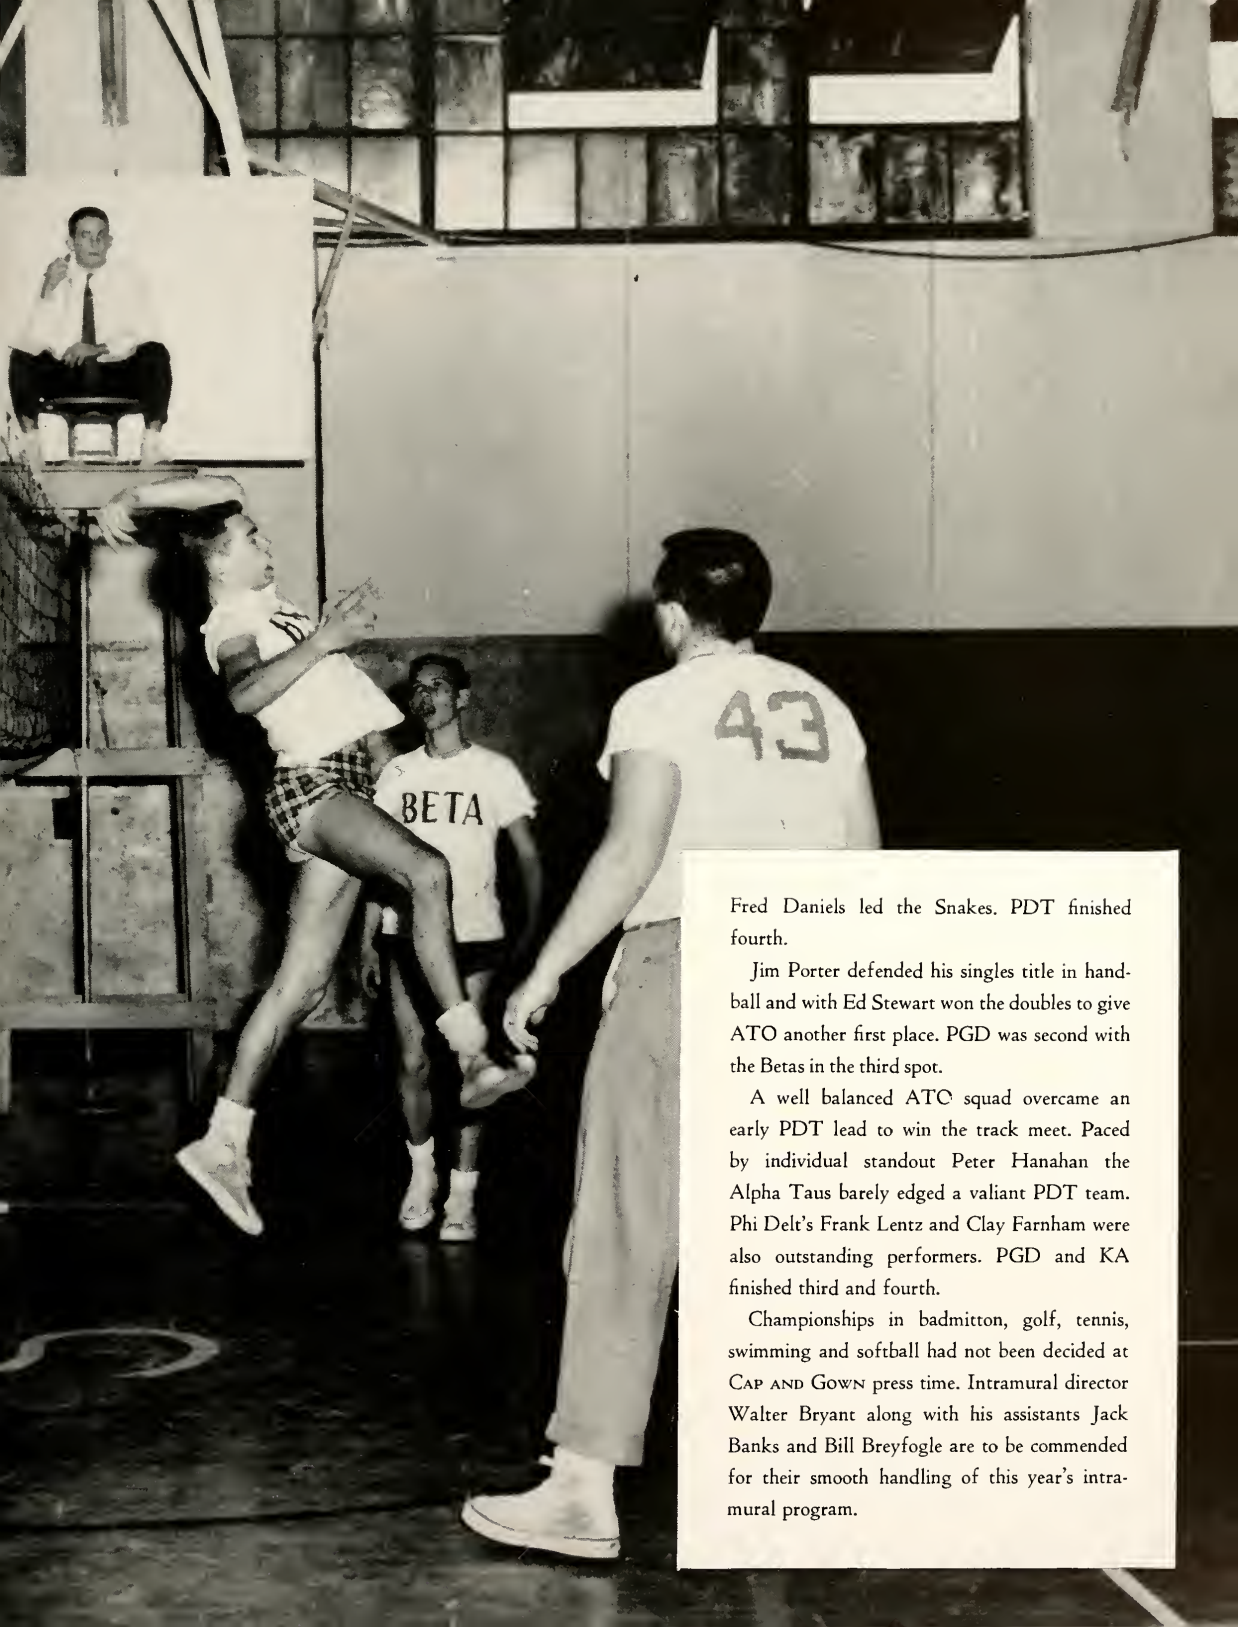

As the CAP AND GOWN went to press, the ATO's had a substantial lead in the intramural race. They have won championships in four of the six sports thus far contested. However the Alpha Taus have had stiff competition in the well balanced 1957-58 intramural program.

The first event of the intramural year was touch football. Tailbacks Fred Devall and Clayton Parham paced ATO to the championship. Second place was taken by the Theologs while PGD and KA finished third and fourth respectively.

PDT headed by individual winner Clayton Farnham led the field in cross country. The runner-up position went to ATO with SN third.

In volleyball KA successfully defended their title as they once again finished undefeated. Spiker Bruce Samson was his team's high scorer. PDT finished second while third and fourth places went to the Theologs and PGD.

ATO, sparked by the scoring of Bob Haden and the floor play of Walt Wilder finished on top in basketball. They won only after a close struggle with second place PGD and third place SN. The Fijis had Joel Strawn as key man and

Fred Daniels led the Snakes. PDT finished fourth.

Jim Porter defended his singles title in handball and with Ed Stewart won the doubles to give ATO another first place. PGD was second with the Betas in the third spot.

A well balanced ATC squad overcame an early PDT lead to win the track meet. Paced by individual standout Peter Hanahan the Alpha Taus barely edged a valiant PDT team. Phi Del's Frank Lentz and Clay Farnham were also outstanding performers. PGD and KA finished third and fourth.

Championships in badminton, golf, tennis, swimming and softball had not been decided at CAP AND GOWN press time. Intramural director Walter Bryant along with his assistants Jack Banks and Bill Breyfogle are to be commended for their smooth handling of this year's intramural program.

Dear Tupper:

It wasn't so easy. As a matter of fact, there was quite a lot of disagreement before we finally decided on the winners. On the subject of pretty girls we are all a rather opinionated lot here at PLAYBOY, and this was an extraordinary group of beautiful young ladies.

The winners that we finally agreed upon are as follows: First, Miss Carol Wetterhall; Second, Miss Panthea Reid; Third, Miss Nanette Crosby.

Perhaps my good taste has just improved with age, Tupper, but I certainly don't remember the class of '50 ever blessing the Mountain with such a charming collection of dates. You fellows in the class of '58 are to be congratulated.

Very truly yours,

HOMECOMING QUEEN

ONE HUNDRED YEARS IN SEWANEE . . .

FORENSIC HALL, built in 1873, was one of the University's first class buildings, and during the 1880's and 1890's was used extensively by students for parties and dances. It stood approximately on the site of All Saints'. Note the football scores.

OLD HOFFMAN, one of the University's first stone buildings, burned and was replaced in 1921 by the present building.

A hundred years ago, Sewanee was physically non-existent. There were only rocks and trees and three or four springs. A railroad spur ran from Cowan to Tracy City, serving the mines of the Sewanee Mining Company. There was still the rough trace of the Atlanta-Nashville post road that had a rest stop at what is now Tremlett Spring, at the upper end of Abbo's Alley.

The next residents of the mountain, after the Indians, were an army major and two Episcopal bishops. Fairbanks, Polk, and Elliott planned to make Sewanee their home, and by 1860, when the cornerstone for the principal University building was laid, they had all three cleared small plots out of the woods and built houses. In addition to the three homes there were, at that time, several log cabins near Tremlett Spring, and a couple of larger buildings that were built in anticipation of the cornerstone celebration. But at this time Sewanee was still nothing more than a few buildings scattered around in the forest, connected by paths or mule tracks.

Because of its isolation and its primitive level of development, it is amazing that so many people showed up at the dedication of the University cornerstone. The celebration that not only accompanied the ceremony, but almost drowned it out, was probably the most spectacular thing that ever happened at Sewanee. More than five thousand people arrived, by railroad, wagon, horseback and foot. But according to an eyewitness account most of them were inhabitants of the valleys and coves, and came not to witness a moving ceremony, but to celebrate and get drunk and fight and gamble and trade horses.

Even beginning amid such auspicious and prophetic circumstances did not help Sewanee through the Civil War. Union sympathizers burned the buildings, and visiting Union troops, thinking that the cornerstone contained a rich prize, blew it to pieces. So after the war was over the Founding Fathers found themselves with nothing but a hole in the ground where the cornerstone used to be. It was a bad time.

ST. LUKE'S and OLD HOFFMAN appear in this semi-panoramic view of the campus taken about 1900. The white-bearded man at the right is Dr. DuBose. The small pines in the picture are now forty-foot trees.

Fairbanks built Rebel's Rest at Sewanee in 1866, and Quintard, second Bishop of Tennessee, took the responsibility for raising money to reopen. Quintard went to England to secure financial aid, and never quite got over it spelling "the" as "ye" to the end of his days. He did, however, raise a sufficient amount of money, and the University of the South went back into business.

Sewanee reopened in 1868 with four professors and nine students. Physically speaking, the University was about where it was before the war with a chapel—the old St. Augustine's—and a few other wood buildings. Within the next five years the enrollment increased by leaps and bounds, and many new buildings sprang up. After 1870 there were twenty or more private homes, and about fifteen buildings belonging to the University that included dormitories, class rooms, a one-room library—that later became the first ATO house in history—and a mass production privy. There was a fairly decent wagon road leading from the station through the town. In 1872 Sewanee was enriched by the construction of a church, a school and a jail.

The general aspect of the place was still pretty raunchy, however. In a letter to Fairbanks, Quintard wrote "I do beg you, my dear Major, to have ye undergrowth cut out in front of ye house. It will give that quarter such a civilized look. And with whitewashed fences, we shall be able to show a vast advance in morals as well."

The University was originally intended to have an academic year stretching from Spring to Fall, leaving the winter months for vacation. Most of the buildings, therefore, were light in construction, having single-thickness walls, and no basements. Heat for cool days was provided by pot-bellied stoves.

So with its light, ramshackled wood buildings, its trees and copious undergrowth and its dirt paths and roads, Sewanee must have resembled nothing so much as a summer camp; it must have been very much like present-day summer church camps. It is easy to picture what the summer classes were like, with doors and windows open to the breezes that fluttered the tree leaves, with the constant cicada chorus outside, and the dark cool dankness inside the board rooms.

Sewanee's first large stone buildings came in 1877 with the Hodgson Infirmary, the first unit of the present hospital, and in 1878, with St. Luke's Hall. In 1883 a noble monstrosity arose, called Thompson Hall; it was three stories high, and in the course of its existence contained everything from a dissecting room to a theater. Walsh was built in 1890. The wooden buildings were gradually being replaced.

But Sewanee still had no paved roads and few municipal conveniences of any kind. As late as 1910 the mountain hogs still maintained a wallow in front of the Supply Store, and continued to root up the campus in spite of fences that were constructed to keep them out—people living today have no conception of the damage a rooting hog could do. A lawn that was beautifully smooth at nightfall would be a maze of foot-deep furrows by six the next morning. It was finally discovered that the hogs were hiding out under the old McCrady house during the day, using it as a base for nightly foragings in the tender academic turf.

Around 1905 the first automobile appeared on the Sewanee mud trail, but for several more years, the only real link with the outside world continued to be the railroad, and a few wagon trails that wound steeply down the mountain to the valley. During the 1920's six of present stone buildings were constructed, numerous new houses appeared, and the community began to expand into an approximation of its present geographical shape. Construction came to a virtual halt with the depression, and did not resume until about 1950.

Almost nothing is left of early Sewanee. The Fairbanks home is the oldest building on the mountain. Magnolia is the oldest University building. It is obvious why there is so little left. The early University was a make-shift hand-to-mouth affair; the buildings it used have served their purpose, and have burned down or have been torn down. The romantic instability of the past and its backwoods rusticity are gone. The founders are dead. The institution evolves and lives.

QUINTARD HALL, first major building of the Sewanee Military Academy, burned and was rebuilt in the 1920's.

GETTING TO SEWANEE

Sewanee has always been a difficult place to get to. Even nowadays the nearest commercial airport is sixty miles away, and the nearest railroad station is six miles, and accessible to a traveler only by taxi. Things were considerably worse around the turn of the century.

The most practical means of transportation then was by railroad, to Cowan from Nashville or Chattanooga, and up to Sewanee on the passenger car of the "Mountain Goat." But this train ran only once a day, more or less, and did not always carry a passenger car, so that a truly unfortunate student might wait twenty-four hours and end up riding in an empty coal car. A student who was somewhat luckier might catch a ride up the mountain in a mule wagon. The most dependable way was to walk.

Once on top of the mountain a student could usually get a hack, there being a fairly presentable dirt road from the station through "town."

Sewanee got its first automotive connections with the great wide world in the early 1920's when a road was built to Cowan that was navigable by tin lizzie.

Acknowledgments

Without the assistance of the following people, the CAP AND GOWN, CENTENNIAL EDITION, would have been barren and uninteresting. We are grateful to

Mr. Arthur Chitty, for helping obtain the color portions of the division pages, for the use of his files and numerous photographs, and for his good advice.

Mrs. Arthur Chitty, for her scrupulous reading of proofs.

Mrs. Oscar Torian, for an afternoon of free picture picking in her archives office, for her important information, and for her patience.

Mr. Howard Coulson, of Cowan, who made readily accessible to us his photographic experience, and without whose immediate aid this book might well have been published in August.

Messrs. John Benson III and Dan Eadie, of Benson Printing Company; the former, because he agreed just enough, and the latter, because he disagreed constantly.

Mr. Bob Faerber, of Alabama Engraving Company, Birmingham, who knew what we wanted, and who nicked time.

The Staff, who seemed to work.

Mrs. Harry Hedrick, of Nashville, in whose drawing room a CAP AND GOWN should look fine.
